

DAGGERHEART TEMPLATE

A minimal typst template to build documents for Daggerheart.

- Default font: Avenir
- Default text size: 10pt
- Default page size: A4

You can change the defaults. Use the `with` statement:

```
#show: daggerheart.with(font: Arial, font_size: 8pt, paper: a5)
// your content comes here

MAIN FEATURES

Automatically sets conditions italic. E.g. writing Hidden, Vulnerable, and Restrained is shown as: Hidden, Vulnerable, and Restrained.

READ STATBLOCKS DIRECTLY FROM JSON FILES

To read an Adversary statblock, you can use

#adversary(json("adversary_json/Apprentice Assassin.json"))

which yields

APPRENTICE ASSASSIN

Tier 2 MINION

A young trainee eager to prove themselves.

Motives & Tactics: Act reckless, kill, prove their worth, show off

Difficulty: 13 | Thresholds: None | HP: 1 | Stress: 1
ATK: -1 | Thrown Dagger: Very Close | Damage: 4 phy

Experiences: Intrusion +2

FEATURES

Minion (6) – Passive: The Assassin is defeated when they take any damage. For every 6 damage a PC deals to the Assassin, defeat an additional Minion within range the attack would succeed against.

Group Attack – Action: Spend a Fear to choose a target and spotlight all Apprentice Assassins within Close range of them. Those Minions move into Melee range of the target and make one shared attack roll. On a success, they deal 4 physical damage each. Combine this damage.

The template automatically sets dice formulas, and phrases like “spend a Fear” (or spend 2 Fear) or “mark a Stress” in bold. You can adjust the appearance, for example by removing the box and changing the font:

#text(font: "Arial", size: 8pt, adversary(
  json("adversary_json/Apprentice Assassin.json"),
  width: 50%,
  block_stroke: 0pt,
))
```

yields

APPRENTICE ASSASSIN

Tier 2 MINION

A young trainee eager to prove themselves.

Motives & Tactics: Act reckless, kill, prove their worth, show off

Difficulty: 13 Thresholds: None HP: 1 Stress: 1
ATK: -1 Thrown Dagger: Very Close Damage: 4 phy
Experiences: Intrusion +2

FEATURES

Minion (6) – Passive: The Assassin is defeated when they take any damage. For every 6 damage a PC deals to the Assassin, defeat an additional Minion within range the attack would succeed against.

Group Attack – Action: Spend a Fear to choose a target and spotlight all Apprentice Assassins within Close range of them. Those Minions move into Melee range of the target and make one shared attack roll. On a success, they deal 4 physical damage each. Combine this damage.

Of course, this also works for Environment stat blocks.

For example: `#environment(json("environment_json/bustling_marketplace.json"))` gives

BUSTLING MARKETPLACE

Tier 1 SOCIAL

The economic heart of the settlement, with local artisans, traveling merchants, and patrons across social classes.

Impulses: Buy low, sell high, tempt and tantalize with wares from near and far

Difficulty: 10
Potential Adversaries: Guards (Bladed Guard, Head Guard), Masked Thief, Merchant

FEATURES

Tip the Scales – Passive: PCs can gain advantage on a Presence Roll by offering a handful of gold as part of the interaction.

Will any coin be accepted, or only local currency? How overt are the PCs in offering this bribe?

Unexpected Find – Action: Reveal to the PCs that one of the merchants has something they want or need, such as food from their home, a rare book, magical components, a dubious treasure map, or a magical key.

What cost beyond gold will the merchant ask for in exchange for this rarity?

Sticky Fingers – Action: A thief tries to steal something from a PC. The PC must succeed on an Instinct Roll to notice the thief or lose an item of the GM's choice as the thief escapes to a Close distance. To retrieve the stolen item, the PCs must complete a Progress Countdown (6) to chase down the thief before the thief completes a Consequence Countdown (4) and escapes to their hideout.

What drove this person to pickpocketing? Where is the thief's hideout and how has it avoided notice?

Crowd Control – Reaction: When one of the PCs splits from the group, the crowds shift and cut them off from the party.

Where does the crowd's movement carry them? How do they feel about being alone but surrounded?

The questions are automatically formatted and use a lighter font. Both Adversaries and Environments use relative font sizes, so when you change the default of the document, they will adjust accordingly.

ENCOUNTER TABLES

Since all data comes from json in a structured way, we can do cool stuff with it. For example, we can build a nice table for encounters that can be printed and used at the table.

#encounter_table(
  (
    ("adversary": json("adversary_json/Master Assassin.json"), "count": 1), ("adversary": json("adversary_json/Assassin Poisoner.json"), "count": 1),
  ),
  encounter_name: none
)
```

Is parsed as:

NAME	DC	M / S	HP	STRESS	V	R	H
MASTER ASSASSIN	15	12 / 25	○○○○○○○ ○	○○○○○	☐	☐	☐
ASSASSIN POISONER	14	8 / 16	○○○○○	○○○○○	☐	☐	☐

The V, R, and H columns can be used to marked the Vulnerable, Restrained, and Hidden condition, respectively.

CUSTOMIZATION

There are some additional features. For example, Horde and Minion Adversaries are presented with additional information. You can also specify the tier and number_pcs and calculate the Battle Points. And lets also add a couple of empty rows in case we have to improvise. To keep the table more clean, let's also remove the conditions and put it in a box.

#box(radius: 4pt, stroke: 0.5pt, inset: 10pt, encounter_table(
  (
    ("adversary": json("adversary_json/Jagged Knife Lieutenant.json"), "count": 1), ("adversary": json("adversary_json/Jagged Knife Hexer.json"), "count": 1), ("adversary": json("adversary_json/Jagged Knife Bandit.json"), "count": 3), ("adversary": json("adversary_json/Jagged Knife Lackey.json"), "count": 3),
  ),
  encounter_name: "Jagged Knife Encounter",
  tier: 0, // 0 is default
  display_battle_points: true,
  add_empty_rows: 3,
  display_conditions: false,
  number_pcs: 3,
)
```

Results in:

JAGGED KNIFE ENCOUNTER

Minions show the HP needed for additional kills in parantheses. You can adjust the Battle Points via battle_point_adjustment. The tables automatically apply adjustments for two or more Solos, if adversaries from lower tiers are used and if no Bruisers, Hordes, Leaders or Solos are present.

Combining these features, we can build one-page encounter summaries - check out the next page.
